WILLIAM CLAUDE McALISTER

A Tribute To

Oklahoma's State Senator At Large

Private Life and Public Service have their tragedies no less than War;—We appear for a time,—we endear some hearts to us,—some public service well and faithfully done,—then the All Father calls and we obey.

On August 28th, 1934, while seated at his desk in the United States Internal Revenue Office, Senator William C. McAlister closed his weary eyes and heard a strange yet familiar whisper. He turned his head but the physical body was inert and moved not. Life on earth was over.

He was born September 14, 1870, on a South Carolina plantation, near TATUM STATION in MARLBORO COUNTY. Here on this homestead, which for several generations had been held as a family manor, he grew to manhood's estate.

On this cotton plantation his boyhood passed and he reveled in the out-doors, in the farm work, attended the adjacent public school, worshiped with his family in the nearby church. Here he inhaled, and as he waxed to manhood absorbed the haloed atmosphere of the splendid family to which God entrusted him.

He absorbed and learned statecraft from "Old Man Moore" a politically minded neighbor.

His finishing course was at Chapel Hill, University of North Carolina. He majored in Literature and Education and finished with a Degree and Life Tenure School Teacher's Certificate.

Reserved, sober, industrious, ambitious, his growth did not stop with the receipt of a diploma, but set himself to a course of training at the Law which soon lead to his "Admission to the Bar" of the COUNTRY.

This child of the South was infinitely broader than theory or more learning. He accepted the world as a school for industry and believed that the salvation of the race lay in good old fashioned work. He loved the sacred hands, the bent form and sun-tanned faces of the toiling masses. The whirl of nature's loom was to him deep and subtle enchantment by means of which God spoke to his heart.

He deliberately set himself to the task of learning the trades of the brick mason and the cement worker, not for the sole purpose of insuring a livelihood, but as an expression of an exalted inward urge to take part in the world's work.

Harkening to the "Call of the West," he went to Texas, and to Arkansas and to Oklahoma, finally settling at Hugo, Oklahoma.

His heart yielded to "Humanity's Divine Commission," and he won to his fortunes a daughter of the "Bonnie Blue Flag" and this union was graced by three splendid children—a daughter and two sons—who, with the wife, survive his passing.

He was like "The Rock from which he was Hewn." The courtly dignity of the established, the cultured, family of the South, the rural training of his early life, the varied and rugged scenery of his native State, her languorous cotton fields, her stately palmetto, her heavenly magnolia, the industry of the farm, the intimate acquaintance with livestock; his love of the great outdoors, his kinship with nature, his mastery of the tekton's art were developed into a fine co-ordination of peculiar excellence.

In school teaching, in law, in politics, in statecraft, his heart tempering experiences and the builders creative art sublimated his attitude and unified his conceptions of public service.

In 1912 he was elected from Hugo to the Oklahoma State Senate and served eight continuous years. In 1918, while still sitting as a Senator, the membership volunteered to elect Senator McAlister Secretary of the body. This office made him ex-officio Secretary of the State Election Board. He held this honor almost continuously until 1929. Outstanding was the sign manuel of both the officer and the office.

Senator McAlister was an exemplar of the Divine quality of self-mastery. His even unruffled disposition; his judicial temperament endowed every public consideration with wisdom.

Fidelity was born in him, righteousness in public service was consecration to country and to God. Senator "Mc" as he was familiarly and lovingly called, was the friend, the advisor, the helper of all applicants who placed public service and honesty first. The painstaking care which he gave to every public question and the sureness of his wisdom marked his counsel with a high degree of perfection.

As a State Senator for eight years and as the Senate's Secretary, he held and wielded great power and a highly influential organization, which he used to help many to realize their ambitions, and brought to their aid an insight profound and accurate. Though hundreds were his debtors, he had no desire to force collection.

His outstanding characteristic was helpfulness to others and self abnegation. The offices he held, the great power he wielded were never used for personal profit nor gain of wealth or to exploit his own importance. He was more than honest. He was the natural enemy of avarice, the antipode of overreaching.

He resented wrong but had too much faith in ultimate justice to be envious.

He has closed his career mid the toil of our day and the scenes of earth and rests from his labors. His heart was noble, his soul was heroic. He has answered the summons of the Master Builder and the call of his Father. His station and his reward will be that of one whose happiness was to love and to serve.

Though gone, his work has not vanished. In state service he was a creator and a conservator, the servant of future generations. The humanity of our State may well present him in the presence of the Master in Calvary's immortal classic, "ECCE HOMO."

Address delivered at funeral of Senator W. C. McAlister, by President Henry G. Bennett, A. & M. College:

IN MEMORIAM, WILLIAM CLAUDE McALISTER

The sombre notes of a silent requiem fill our hearts and awaken deep overtones of sadness. Not one of us who knew him, or whose lives were touched ever so slightly by him, can forget Senator McAlister's reticent dignity, his kindly humor, his simple sincerity, his honest sympathy, his unfaltering courage. In a world of madness and clamor he "walked the earth with dignity"; surrounded by prosaic routine, regulations, facts, he made them alive and vital by the play of his amiable humor; in an age that may be characterized perhaps as one of young men "on the make" he faced his world with hearty, honest, consistent sincerity; as the passing years brought success, broader horizons, heavier responsibilities and greater personal opportunities, his sympathies for and understanding of men of every kind and condition broadened also, and he loved them more as he knew them better and understood their motives, their hopes, their real desires; and through the years, as uncertainty crept into men's hearts and sapped their strength, as crises snapped their will to do, as fear tried their character at each and every weak spot, he whom we commemorate today stood steadily his ground with constant and discerning courage.

"One who never turned his back but marched breast forward,
Never doubted clouds would break,
Never dreamed, though right were worsted,
wrong would triumph,
Held we fall to rise, are baffled to fight better
Sleep to wake."

Greatness in men is as much a product of the culture in which they were nourished as it is of the native ability with which they were born. One cannot survey the long, wise, and remarkably unselfish life of William C. McAlister without having borne into one's mind full consciousness of this truth.

Senator McAlister was born on an estate in South Carolina which had for two hundred years descended within the family from generation to generation. His earliest associations and the closing memories of his life clustered around this old homestead enriched with the teachings, the training, and the aspirations which grew out of the unbroken line of succession and the traditions which gathered about the estate with the passing of the years.

In early manhood the efforts of these early associations were intensified by years at Chapel Hill where he entered one of the first State universities founded in America. Here the code of "The Old South" of the traditions of scholar and the gentleman, blended with the Liberal Arts curriculum of the day, made their contribution to the growing character which was later to mean so much for Oklahoma.

Completing his liberal education, Senator McAlister next chose and prepared for the practice of the law, but he did not immediately follow that profession. He went out first as a teacher and educator, serving as Superintendent of Schools in or near his home state. Later on, the call of the new West stirred the blood of this son of the South, and he sought the West and his fortune.

Some have wondered at the broad sympathy for the common man that characterized Senator McAlister's outlook and conduct throughout his life, and at this discernment and understanding of humanity. Undoubtedly the beginning of these are to be found in his early experiences as a farmer as well as in the years during which he was an apprenticed brick mason. Herein, also, is the explanation of his interest as a builder and contractor. During manhood's really formative years, these interests dominated his life. They were actively followed between the period that was definitely given over to teaching and that which was chiefly devoted to legal and political activities.

He came to know life at first hand from many points of view. People became individuals to him, each with his own unique pattern of hopes, fears, likes, dislikes, capacities, disabilities, and energies. His discerning mind grasped not only the gap between men as they wanted to be and were, but the reasons for the gap, as well. To an extent approached by few, life opened up its mysteries before his probing intellect and his sympathetic understanding. Few problems in human motives were not apparent as an open book to his sensitive intuition that was too finely tempered by reason.

Senator McAlister went first to Texas, where he served as a school principal. After several years in this work, he ventured into business as a contractor and builder.

His interests brought him eventually to Hugo, Oklahoma, where he resumed his practice of law in addition to his other activities. Here his matured personality became the fixture which gave stability to all it contacted during those early days of unsettled equilibrium which followed the founding of the State. He gave freely of his life and his energy to the community to which he had come. At Hugo his wise counsel, his even unruffled disposition, his unshakable fidelity and devoted consecration to the public service made more worthy his performance of every public duty. The sureness of his wisdom, the perfection of his counsel drew men to him from everywhere. His field of service grew; it reached out beyond the environs of his local city, of his county, of his district, until it became a vital, dynamic force in the life of his adopted state.

For eight years, from 1912-1920, Senator McAlister served as State Senator from his district. Always he placed first in his heart and in his actions the public interest. Like the Good Samaritan, who gave of his time and of his wealth for those whom he found the victims of untoward circumstances, so Senator McAlister gave freely in the interest of the deserving who were in need. Probably no man in public life in this state who, having free access to the controls of public affairs, used them less for personal aggrandizement. He asked nothing of his friends but the opportunity to serve them wisely, unselfishly, and well.

For a few years following his retirement from the State Senate Senator McAlister served as Secretary of the Senate, following which he retired to private life, except for a few months during which he was Assistant Collector of Customs. To the end of his life he remained the same wise counselor of his friends, the same disinterested public servant, the same firm fixture in the chaotic currents of State affairs which for the years preceding he had been. And to his death he remained true to those high ideals of his childhood in South Carolina, of young manhood in the University of North Carolina, which had taught him the meaning of personal responsibility, the dignity and inviolability of a public trust.

To this man, a rare dynamic character, the State of Oklahoma owes a debt of gratitude. Whether it is ever recognized or not, there rests upon the citizenship of this State and upon the statesmen who follow him an obligation to aspire to the high ideals of public fealty which he by example has taught.

The gift which William C. McAllister has bequeathed to the State of Oklahoma is his rich and varied contribution of statesmanship which has been woven into the fabric of our public life and into the very being or our institutions. To an extent greater than most realize, the very color and form and texture of our body politic have been drawn from the life blood and the life energies of this man who served others, but did not serve himself.

The rich personal relationships which he carried throughout life and his exemplary public spirit will persist beyond this incident called "death", for which can character mean unless it be that indissoluble essence which can and shall survive the shock of change? Those who knew him grieve because he has left them, yet in their hearts there is the tranquil joy and satisfaction that worth—to our personal lives, to the community in which he dwelt, to his commonwealth which he served, and to posterity which shall enjoy the fruits of his wisdom and self-denial—shall never be lost, but shall live on into the eternity which knows not time, in the universe which knows not place.

"O living will that shalt endure
When all that seems shall suffer shock,
Rise in the spiritual rock,
Flow through our deeds and make them pure,

That we may lift from out of dust
A voice as unto him that hears,
A cry above the conquered years
To one that with us works, and trusts,

With faith that comes of self-control
The truths that never can be proved
Until we close with all we loved,
And all we flow from, soul in soul."

By unanimous consent, the above Tribute was ordered printed in pamphlet form.

Senator Ritzhaupt moved that the vote, by which House Bill No. 453 failed of passage, be reconsidered, which motion failed of adoption.

Said funds may also be invested in Oklahoma State Bonds, county bonds of the counties of this State, and United States Bonds, and in the investment of funds preference shall be given to such securities in the order named. Provided, however, that no permanent common school or educational funds shall be invested in any bonds or securities until all applications for first mortgage loans have been considered by the Commissioners of the Land Office and all persons accommodated who are able to meet the requirements of the provisions of this Act; provided further, that no bond investment shall be made until the Attorney General of the State of Oklahoma gives his opinion in writing that such proposed investment is within the legal authority of the Commissioners of the Land Office, and that such bonds as may be proposed to purchase are valid.

Section 11. Investments of public funds in farm mortgages shall be made under the following rules and regulations:

(a) Such investments shall be made in first mortgages upon good and improved farm lands located within the State of Oklahoma, the cash value of which disregarding all improvements, is at least double the amount of the loan, and the fair rental value of which is equal to the annual payments which are to be made by the borrower, and not to exceed Ten Thousand ($10,000.00) Dollars, shall be loaned to any individual or family; provided, however, that loans heretofore made in excess of Ten Thousand ($10,000.00) Dollars, that have become due or may hereafter become due, the Commissioners of the Land Office shall renew such loans under the terms provided in this Act, for the making of new loans.

The provisions of this Act shall not prohibit the Commissioners of the Land Office from renewing present existing loans in cases where a new owner offers adequate security to justify such a renewal.

(c) Notes evidencing said loans shall be drawn to run for twenty years at the rate of five (5) percent per annum under an authorized plan to reduce the loans fifty (50) percent at maturity; or to run for a period of thirty three years at the rate of five (5) percent per annum under an amortized plan to liquidate said loan in full at maturity.

(d) The Commissioners of the Land Office shall prepare applications for loans, appraisers' reports, notes and mortgages in conformity with these rules and regulations for use in making such loans.

Before any loan can be closed, the records held by the Loan Division must show that State's mortgage is a first and superior lien on the lands described therein. All abstracts furnished shall be retained and filed in the Department and returned to the borrower when said loan is satisfied. In case of default and foreclosure, the abstract shall be forfeited to and become the property of the School Land Department.

(f) When an application for a loan is filed, together with the fees required, the same shall be referred to an appraiser who shall view and appraise the land and the improvements thereon and make his report to the Commissioners, setting forth the value of the security offered, together with his estimate of the annual rental value thereof and such additional information as the Commissioners may require. If the report shows the security to be of sufficient value, said report shall be considered by the Commission at their next meeting following the filing of said report and they shall either approve or reject said loan. If they approve said loan, the abstract of title shall be presented to the Title Examiner for examination. The abstract of title shall in all cases be filed with the application.

(g) No loans shall be made to any State official, either legislative, executive or judicial, whether elected or appointed, during their term of office or during their candidacy for an elective office; provided, that this rule and regulation shall not effect existing loans or the renewal thereof, nor hereafter to loans made to persons eligible therefor and who are elected after securing said loans.

(h) No loan shall be made on a tract of land of less than twenty acres and in no case shall more than $50.00 per acre be loaned, regardless of value.

(i) Except as hereinbefore provided, no loan shall be made on any lands where more than one-half of the oil, gas or other mineral rights therein or thereunder are not owned by the applicant.

(j) Any borrower may make payment either in part or in whole of his loan at any interest paying date, provided, the borrower shall have the right at any time to pay all or any part of delinquent payments. All delinquent payments of both interest and principal shall bear interest at the rate of five (5) per cent per annum from date of maturity until paid. The Cashier in all cases, upon receipt of any payments of whatever nature, shall issue a receipt to the payor at the time said payment is made. Diligent effort shall be made to collect all matured installments of both interest and principal. No settlement shall be made by the Commissioners of the Land Office or any employee with any borrower for less than the amount due upon his obligation, provided, that in all cases where the Commissioners have heretofore accepted deeds to lands in satisfaction of loans, such transactions are hereby confirmed and the title in and to said lands is hereby validated and confirmed.

(l) The duties of the officers comprising the Commissioners of the Land Office when acting as such Commissioners shall be deemed to be a part of the official duties of the several offices to which they are elected and by reason whereof they are members of said Commission. If any Commissioner or employee of the School Land Department knowingly permits, consents to, or participates in any act or transaction which is in violation of these rules, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be subject to removal from office, and shall be liable on his bond for any loss occasioned thereby.

(m) The terms and provisions of this Act providing for making of new loans or the renewal of matured loans shall not prevent or prohibit the Commissioners of the Land Office from making new loans or renewal loans which are approved prior to the date this Act becomes effective under the rules and regulations prescribed by the legislature as existed on the date said loans were approved.

Section 12. The Commissioners of the Land Office are hereby authorized to renew, upon proper application therefor, all present matured loans or loans hereafter to mature wherein all interest and taxes are paid, and where the same security covered by the loan to be renewed is available and has not depreciated to a value less than double the amount of the loan to be renewed, provided, however, in the event a loan becomes due and on application for the renewal thereof if filed and the interest due thereon and taxes have not been paid, the Commissioners of the Land Office may cause said land to be appraised and in the event the land offered as security is of sufficient value to permit a loan for an amount sufficient to liquidate the indebtedness due the State and pay said taxes, a new loan may be made, provided, the same does not exceed the sum of Ten Thousand ($10,000.00) Dollars and can be made under the terms and provisions of this Act providing for the making of new loans.

Section 13. All new loans and all present loans which may be renewed by the Commissioners of the Land Office shall be for a period of twenty years on the amortized plan at the rate of five (5) percent per annum and shall provide for the payment of forty (40) semi-annual principal and interest installments so as to reduce the amount of the principal loan fifty (50) per cent on date of maturity, or for a period of thirty-three (33) years on the amortized plan at the rate of five (5) percent per annum and shall provide for the payment of sixty-six (66) equal semi-annual principal and interest installments so as to liquidate the loan in full at maturity. Whether or not the twenty year or thirty-three year plan amortized loan shall be made is hereby left to the discretion of the Commissioners of the Land Office.

Section 14. The Commissioners of the Land Office shall have a first lien on all crops grown on the premises mortgaged to the State to secure the principal and interest installments delinquent at the time of the planting of the crops on said premises. When satisfaction of said delinquent interest and principal payments have been made said premises shall be, by the terms and provisions of this Act, automatically released.

Section 15. All new loans and present loans which may be rewritten by the Commissioners of the Land Office shall be written so as to mature principal and interest installments at the time most suitable for the borrower or owner, in each instance, to meet such installments.

Section 16. In case of default in payment of any item due on any mortgage contract made with the Commissioners of the Land Office or upon the failure of his assigns to comply with any of the terms or conditions of any such mortgage agreements, it shall be the duty of any court of competent jurisdiction, upon any proper application, made therefor by the Commissioners of the Land Office, to appoint a receiver to take charge of the real estate covered by the said mortgage, except as to homesteads actually occupied by the fee owner, in which cases the appointment of a receiver shall be discretionary with the Court, and said receiver shall be authorized to assume full dominion and possession of said premises pending the final determination of such action as may be instituted by the Commissioners of the Land Office.

Section 17. Upon the passage and approval of this Act, the Service Department shall take charge of collections on all loans made by the Commissioners of the Land Office; and shall have authority to make collection thereon in accordance with the terms and provisions of such mortgage agreements. The Service Division is hereby authorized to cause the appraisal of the security of all delinquent loans, and to appraise additional securities offered by the borrower or owner, with the view and for the purpose of rewriting said delinquent loans into the form of the twenty (20) year or thirty-three (33) year amortized loan plan as herein provided. In the event a borrower or owner can give a valid first lien to the Commissioners of the Land Office, upon any property, either now securing a loan or offered in addition to the present security thereof, which property upon appraisal is valued as not less than double the amount due on such delinquent loan, then said loan shall be rewritten into the form of the twenty (20) year or thirty-three (33) year mortgized loan plan. In the event the borrower or owner does not have adequate security to justify such rewriting of the indebtedness, the Service Division may, and it is hereby authorized to accept both chattel and real estate collateral in consideration of giving a borrower or owner reasonable extensions of time in which to reduce the indebtedness to the point that would justify the rewriting thereof. In cases where the Service Division deems that no redemption is possible, the Commissioners of the Land Office are hereby authorized to cause the immediate foreclosure of such mortgage; provided, however, that in such cases the Commissioners of the Land Office are authorized to accept warrantly deeds in settlement of such mortgage indebtedness, unless a foreclosure is necessary to clear the title to the lands securing such indebtedness.

Section 18. Upon the passage and approval of this Act, the Service Division shall take charge of all collections; on all real estate rental agreements, and shall proceed to collect the same according to the terms and provisions of such agreements; on all oil and gas lease rentals which are now delinquent or which may hereafter become delinquent; on all royalty payments delinquent or to hereafter become delinquent under any oil and gas lease agreement or other mineral lease made between the Commissioners of the Land Office and any corporation, association, or individual; and of all other collections of whatsoever nature.

Section 19. All lands acquired by foreclosure of mortgages or the acceptance of deeds and all lands heretofore sold under a Certificate of Purchase Contract where said Certificate of Purchase has been canceled, and all deficiency judgments owned by the Commissioners of the Land Office, shall be disposed of in the following manner:

(a) Upon resolution adopted by the Commissioners of the Land Office, any or all lands acquired by foreclosure of mortgage or the acceptance of deeds or lands heretofore sold under Certificate of Purchase contract, where said Certificate of Purchase has been canceled, or all land acquired by original grant, except original grant land which can be used for grazing purposes only, may be sold by the Commissioners of the Land Office for cash or on Sales Contracts to be denominated, "Certificates of Purchase", providing for an initial payment of ten (10) per centum of the total purchase price, the balance to be paid in forty (40) equal annual payments with deferred payments drawing interest at the rate of five percent per annum. Notice of the sale of such lands as may be offered for sale shall be published in five consecutive issues in at least one weekly newspaper of general circulation in the county in which such tract or tracts of land are situated. Such notice shall give a brief description of the lands and improvements located thereon and the appraised value of both of such lands and improvements, the time, place and terms of sale. Said lands shall be sold to the highest responsible bidder at public auction. No tract shall be sold for less than ninety per centum of the appraised value thereof, and the same shall be appraised prior to sale by three duly authorized appraisers of the Commissioners of the Land Office. In all cases the Commissioners of the Land Office shall have the right to reject any and all bids.

(b) The state shall have first lien upon all lands sold, together with all improvements and appurtenance thereunto belonging, until all payments, both principal and interest are made thereon; and upon such payments being made, the Commissioners of the Land Office shall in forms of law, execute to each purchaser, as in this article provided, a patent in fee simple; provided, that a certificate of purchase reciting the conditions of such purchase shall be issued to every purchaser under this article immediately upon execution of the contract of purchase, and such certificate of purchase shall be entitled to record, as evidence of the same, under the provisions of the law of conveyance. Provided, that it shall be the duty of the Tax Assessor of each county wherein said lands are situated to place on the tax rolls all lands held under said certificate of purchase; said taxes to be paid by the purchaser named in said certificate of purchase or the assignee of said purchaser.

(c) The Commissioners of the Land Office are hereby authorized to sub-divide any tract or tracts of land, or to combine any tracts of land, subject to sale under the provisions of this Act, when in their discretion it is deemed that such sub-division or combination would induce more purchasers for such sales.

(d) The Commissioners of the Land Office shall reserve and retain forever title to one-half of all the oil, gas and other mineral rights in and under all lands to be sold and shall retain the exclusive right in itself to lease said lands for oil, gas and other minerals, and to reserve and collect the bonuses, rentals, royalties and other incomes from such mineral rights, and shall pay to the purchaser of said land one-half of such bonuses, rentals and royalties, first, applying all such payments to the credit of any balance due the state from the purchaser upon the purchase price of said lands, until same is fully paid, and thereafter shall pay to said purchaser monthly, one-half of all incomes from the source aforesaid received during the previous month.

(e) When the lands, mortgaged to the state as security for a loan has been acquired through foreclosure proceedings or by deeds thereto accepted by the Commissioners of the Land Office and sold, the amount for which same is sold shall be applied as follows: Any payment received at the time of the sale and all unpaid balances shall, when and as collected be apportioned as follows: 1st, the entire balance of the principal of the loan shall be transferred into the fund from which the loan is made; 2nd, interest; 3rd, costs; 4th, fees earned and the remainder, if any, shall be paid into and become a part of the fund from which the loan was made.

In addition to the return of such execution now required by law, the Sheriff shall mail to the Commissioners of the Land Office a duplicate of his return of such execution.

(g) From any moneys collected upon a deficiency judgment there shall be paid; 1st, any balance of the principal, included therein; 2nd, interest; 3rd, costs; 4th, fees earned, and the remainder, if any, shall be paid into and become a part of the fund from which the loan was made.

(h) Upon the death of any judgment debtor, if his estate be administered, the Commissioners shall cause proper claim to be made in the probate court for the amount due the state upon the deficiency judgment against said debtor and any sum collected shall be applied as provided for collections hereinabove. Should all the judgment debtors in any deficiency judgment die without estate, the deficiency judgment shall be charged off and no longer carried as an asset in the department. Such death shall be noted upon the record or judgments in the office and the transaction closed. The same procedure shall be followed in cases where administrations are had and judgment cannot be collected from the estate.

(i) When executions are returned, "no property fund", or the property of the defendant is exhausted and the balance of the judgment unsatisfied, the judgment shall be charged off and no longer carried as an asset of the Department.

(j) Rules and regulations governing the sale of any lands to be sold under the terms and provisions of this Act, not inconsistent herewith, may be made by the Commissioners of the Land Office.

Section 22. Non-preference right lease lands may be leased by the Commissioners of the Land Office for a period not to exceed five (5) years. In the event it becomes necessary to repair existing improvements or construct additional or new improvements on non-preference right lease lands in order to obtain more desirable tenants the Commissioners of the Land Office may, in their discretion, grant a preference right lease on such lands in favor of the tenant who makes such repairs or improvements; provided, however, in all cases, if the non-preference right lease lands are improved, such tenant shall be required to make payment in cash to the Commissioners of the Land Office for the appraised value of such improvements before a preference right lease can be issued.

Section 23. All monies received from surface leases of any and all lands under the jurisdiction and control of the Commissioners of the Land Office whether for agricultural, grazing or other purposes, from and after the effective date of this Act, shall be classified and disposed of in the following manner:

Section 25. Preference right lease lands shall be rented by the Commissioners of the Land Office for terms of five years at an annual rental of four per centum (4%) of the appraised value of such lands exclusive of improvements. Provided, however, if in the opinion of the Commissioners of the Land Office, four per centum (4%) is too high, then, on proper showing the rental may be reduced to not less than two per centum (2%) by the Commissioners of the Land Office. The land departmental appraisal of such lands shall be the basis of rental and including the year 1935, or until said lands be appraised again, which the Commissioners of the Land Office are directed to do during the year 1935 and in no event later than the month of September, 1936.

Section 27. The Commissioners of the Land Office may reinstate any Certificate of Purchase contract or Preference Right Lease subject to valid intervening interests, upon the request of the holder of any such Certificate of Purchase or Preference Right lease and upon payment of all delinquencies due thereon, provided, that all reinstatements herein authorized shall be made within four (4) years from the date of the cancellation of such Certificate of Purchase or Preference Right Lease; provided, further, said lands are still held by the Commissioners of the Land Office and said Certificate of Purchase contract or Preference Right lease payments are redeemed and reinstatement is made within two (2) years after the passage and approval of this Act.

Section 28. Prior to every sale of oil and gas or other mineral lease covering such lands, the Commissioners of the Land Office shall cause notice of such sale to be published for thirty days in a newspaper of general circulation in the county where such lands are situated and in a newspaper of general circulation in the State of Oklahoma. The leasing shall require and the advertisement shall specify in each case a fixed royalty to be paid by the successful bidder, in addition to any bonus offered for the lease, and all proceeds from leases shall be covered into the fund to which that shall properly belong, and no transfer or assignment of any lease shall be valid or confer any right in the assignee without the consent of the Commissioners of the Land Office in writing; provided, however, that agricultural lessees in possession of such lands shall be reimbursed by the mining lessees for all damage done to said agricultural lessees' interest therein by reason of such mining operations. The Commissioners of the Land Office have the right to reject any and all bids for such leases.

Oklahoma City, Oklahoma,

February 1st, 1935.

To the Senate and House of Representatives
Of the State of Oklahoma:

STATUTORY REVISION, ANNOTATION AND INDEXING

I hereby most respectfully tender and offer to the State of Oklahoma, without cost or obligation on its part, the following brief suggestions with reference to statutory revision which our Constitution declares shall be provided for by the Legislature every ten years. I am induced to make this proposition for the following, among other reasons. Both age and ill health are pressing upon me to some extent. I know of no other person in the State who has the information and experience which I tender to you. I am also aware that efforts upon the part of this and other states to produce a revision of their statutes have generally proven highly expensive and decidedly unsatisfactory.

I expended a considerable portion of two year's labor on the Revised Laws, 1910, and in this connection examined every recent revision or compilation obtainable. I consulted several hundred lawyers, judges and officials of State, counties and municipalities on the subject of difficulties in existing laws.

No cloistered philosopher or scholar, however able or industrious, can revise the Statutes of Oklahoma in such a practical and sensible way as to enable the Legislature and the public to use it satisfactorily.

State Statutes of Oklahoma are the rules governing its people. They draw their color and meaning from these people. They should express the meaning and intentions of these people. This presents practical problems in a very large measure and the science of statutory formation and construction is but incidental.

These suggestions will necessarily be very brief, but I will cheerfully furnish more extensive presentation of any or all parts of the subject or answer verbally before committees of the Legislature if requested to do so.

Judicial legislation and construction of doubtful, conflicting and incomplete statutes is very expensive. It is almost wholly unnecessary. Some of your older ones will recall the condition existing in Oklahoma before the Revised Statutes corrected the difficulties growing out of paving streets, intersections and building city walks, etc. On these items alone the taxpayers of the State have doubtless saved more than fifty times the total actual cost of revising the statutes.

The first and most important principle of statutory revision is that revisors should never attempt anything in the way of legislation beyond the primary purposes of carrying out legislative intention as indicated or expressed however imperfectly in existing laws. The arrangement and classification of these laws, the correction of conflicts, overlaps, omissions, duplications and indefinite statements is the legitimate scope of the labors of the revisor. This end can only be reached by enlisting in the work the judges, lawyers and experienced public officials who have reached intelligent conclusions as to some part or division of the law.

WHAT PROVISION SHOULD BE MADE FOR REVISING THE STATUTES

A commissioner or revisor, of course, with power to employ necessary clerical assistance with some provision for supplies, office, filing cases, etc. The commissioner should be a lawyer of many year's experience in Oklahoma, and well known as a lawyer or judge. He will need one industrious, intelligent young lawyer and after a certain period will also need a good stenographer.

HOW TO BEGIN REVISION

Procure complete sets of the Session Laws since 1910 for each person working on the revision. Read the last Session Laws first, noting back on the preceding volumes all specific repeals, amendments or implied repeals such as a complete law on the same subject or apparent conflicts or overlaps. These can generally be noted on the margin and blue pencil run through repealed parts. Work on down through all of the volumes, including Revised Laws of 1910, in the same way. Be careful to leave on margin or memorandum attached to the page all thoughts which occur to the mind at the time with reference to conflicts or incomplete provision. When this reading is completed you are ready to cut out and file live laws and you now come to:

CLASSIFICATION AND ARRANGEMENT

After more than twenty years' consideration of the subject, I am fully satisfied that the simple alphabetical arrangement and classification of the 1910 Revised Laws is the best that can be made. Few members of the Legislature become thoroughly familiar with all of the Statutes of the State, and, in fact, few lawyers of the State ever even read all of its Statutes. One interested in any subject ought to be able to find practically everything on that subject under one basic heading, properly subdivided, and bearing the names which the Legislature has applied to these subjects. Such an arrangement continued will lead to familiarity with the laws and their arrangement on the part of lawyers, judges and members of the Legislature which will greatly facilitate finding and applying them.

When this arrangement and classification is determined upon, then cut existing laws and arrange them tentatively into chapters and articles after pasting them on uniform sized paper. Clip them together as articles and chapters and keep in an ordinary legal filing case, in alphabetical order. This relates, of course to chapter arrangement. The arrangement of each article in each chapter in alphabetical order is also desirable.

About this time, by correspondence and consultation, suggestions ought to be solicited from lawyers, judges and public officials with reference to difficulties, uncertainties or conflicts in Statutes or incompleteness of Statutes coming under their observation. For example, what would you do about the military laws? Referring to lawyers, in general, you know nothing about it. Ask the military man.

When new laws are adopted relating to administrative officers they usually take effect immediately upon execution. Uncertainties, omissions, conflicts and overlaps of other Statutes must be disposed of in some way on the instant. Blanks are prepared and the purpose of the law, however indefinite or uncertain, is applied by the officers with entire satisfaction and approved by the public over a long period of time. Defects in such laws should be cured to the end that such construction be made unmistakably legal and correct. To the technical or scientific man this might be considered as permitting officers to in some measure make their own laws, but they are public officers and the public, which they serve, has by its acquiescence declared that the laws are correct. All that the science of legal construction and drafting has to do with this case is to make the laws correct as they are supposed to be, and thus apply the scientific justification of contemporaneous construction.

NOTATION OF ALL CHANGES IN THE STRUCTURE OF THE STATUTES OR TRANSFER OF SECTIONS OR ARTICLES FROM ONE CLASSIFICATION TO ANOTHER

A complete memoranda should be kept by the revisor from which Legislative committees may readily ascertain what, if any, change has been made in section, article or chapter so far as relocating or changing the language is concerned. As soon as the revision progresses far enough that temporary section numbers can be used these should be utilized in such notations, as it is not advisable to conclude that you have a permanent and final arrangement of section numbers until the Legislature has passed upon and adopted the revision. The revision is adopted by a single Act, as provided by our Constitution, and utilized in the adoption of the 1910 revision.

ANNOTATION

I am not aware that what I consider the correct system of annotation has been utilized in any public statutes, but it has been approved by hundreds of lawyers and judges to whom I have submitted the suggestions. In my opinion annotation should be an extract or catch note of the point in the decision which can usually be cited in very few words by an experienced lawyer although to quote from the decision may require considerable space and printing costs. The time of the lawyer or judge in searching for decisions under a section is important. A decision holding that an affidavit in attachment may be amended, to quote from the syllabi, might require fifteen or twenty lines, while a catch note to the section requiring affidavit in attachment "Affidavit may be amended" would cover in four words all that the lawyer wants to know before he examines the decision.

INDEXING

Any lawyer or judge who has worn his patience to a frazzle in the attempt to find something in an index such as that appended to the Revised Laws of 1910 might be justified in exclaiming: "Why in hell can't we have an index to our Statutes?" While there are very few statutes that are well indexed from a practical standpoint an almost perfect index can be made easily and inexpensively. In examining recently revised or compiled statutes during 1909, I noticed that indexes were usually cumbersome but unsatisfactory, few of them adhering to any basic principle or idea, but among these statutes I found one which had been compiled and indexed by Judge McClain of Boise, Idaho. It was a revelation. That Statute was kept on the table for months and literally hundreds of judges and lawyers were requested to examine the index and before opening the book to think of some subject, statutory title or standard digest designation or subject which would probably be in the Statutes of Idaho. In no instance were announcements made of the subjects that the judge or lawyer would look for did he fail to find it on the first investigation. I remember such common term as schoolhouse, dog, sheep, fence, etc. They were all there. Under that alphabetical arrangement, but there was a cross reference which informed the individual that the subject was indexed in full under such heading as agriculture, animals, education, etc. That old Statute could doubtless be found in the State Library and would be an inspiration to anyone who has torn his hair searching for something under a half dozen different names properly applicable without being able to find it in an index to the Oklahoma Statutes.

When the revision is completed to the satisfaction of the revisor and final proof read then the revisor should procure a strongly built hand-made book with strips for pasting in sheets which must be proof-read and made an absolute duplicate of the file. This book will be referred to in the Act adopting the revision and will be called the Revised Laws. It will be permanently filed in the office of the Secretary of State in the same manner as other Session Laws. The file will be suitable for the printer. After this is completed the final proof reading of the book with the file should begin and while this is being done the index should be made.

THE TECHNICAL WORK OF CONSTRUCTING THE PERMANENT INDEX

The revisor should provide himself with an ordinary card case with alphabetical separating cards. The revisor and his assistant reading proof, with a stenographer sitting by, directs the stenographer to execute on cards and place in this case the index. Cards should be in three colors, we would say, canary, blue and white. Canary would be for entry of chapter headings. Blue article headings and white the body of the index. For the time being, they are merely placed in their proper alphabetical order in the file to be sorted and arranged later. When it occurs to the revisor that a section deals with a subject capable of being indexed under standard digest classification he dictates the entry "SEE" (whatever the digest designation is) giving the first section of the article in which the subject is treated. The same process is used when the subject of the section permits of a common designation such as I have heretofore referred to. It might even assist in time saving and accuracy to use the fourth color of card for cross reference. The searcher is thus informed of just where his subject is indexed in full, but is also immediately lead to the subject which is indexed in full at the head of the article. Since all articles are given, in substance, by catch lines under chapter heading and the catch lines of all sections are set forth under the article heading so he finds his subject by this indirect method, his index is before him and he is not forced to search for the subject in the index under another head. If, for want of time or other reason, it were desirable to present the revision work to Legislative Committees before the full index is prepared this labor could be deferred, but since proof reading must be done, and done with great care, but little additional time would be required to dictate the index to the stenographer. It is manifest that if the permanent or final index were completed before the revision was submitted to the Legislature the work of the committee would be lightened and accuracy more securely provided for.

The indexing and annotation of the Revised Laws of Oklahoma 1910, were done pursuant to contract let by the Board of Affairs after the revision was adopted by the Legislature and I had no connection with this work, although I had expended about $300.00 on account of meeting with Judge McClain at Denver where he set up a miniature indexing plant and taught me the entire details of indexing.

It should be borne in mind that the ability, industry and integurity of the revisor is of great importance and politics should have but slight consideration in determining this very important selection.

You may feel assured that the Judges of the Supreme Court, the Court of Appeals, District Judges, City Attorneys and other public officers will gladly contribute to the work of a revisor in whom they have confidence and whose letters and inquiries make proper appeal for assistance in a work that is the duty of all and for the benefit of all.

As a concluding suggestion, I would say that very valuable assistance on all branches of the subject could doubtless be obtained from the State Bar Association. Their advice in relation to the selection of a revisor and his assistant would doubtless be helpful, and I consider it altogether probable that the Association would provide an advisory committee to run over the work from time to time and assist in collecting suggestions with reference to imperfect and conflicting laws. The Association is highly interested in the subject and in my opinion able and willing to be of great service to the State.

I request that some provision be made for filing this brief with some officer of the State so that it will be available when needed.

Very respectfully,

S. H. HARRIS.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE REPORT

The following Special Committee Report was submitted by Senator Whitaker:

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL UNDER SENATE RESOLUTION 7

To the President of the Senate:

We, your Special Committee, appointed under Senate Resolution No. 7 to investigate the University Hospital, Crippled Children's Hospital, and the University Medical School, respectfully submit the following report:

Your committee accorded a full hearing to all interested parties, and while conditions during the session of this Senate have been such that it has been difficult to devote the proper amount of time to the conduct of the investigation, a voluminous amount of testimony and other evidence has been presented to, and considered by, the committee; a transcript of which evidence is herewith submitted, and from the evidence the committee makes the following findings:

1. The Committee finds that there has been considerable unrest among the students at the Medical School, and a large amount of discussion among the doctors throughout the State, on the subject of the possibility of the Medical School losing its "A" class rating established by the Council on Medical Education of the American Medical Association. The students and public were led to believe that the reported dual control of the University and Crippled Children's Hospital would be the original cause for such demotion. There was no testimony given that would substantiate such rumor, in fact the present dean said he had received no communication along such lines from the Council on Medical Education. We specifically find that the student unrest was fostered by some members of the faculty.

2. Your committee received a copy of a written complaint made by the Dean of the Medical School (also Superintendent of the Hospital) to the Board of Regents, and very carefully went into all matters mentioned in such complaint; admitted in the record all evidence submitted by said dean, and heard the testimony of witnesses suggested by him along all lines of investigation covered by said complaint and his said testimony; your committee is of the opinion that the matters set out in such complaint and complained of in said testimony, were petty and trivial, and should not have disturbed the morale or the operation of either the Medical School or the Hospitals.

3. Your committee further heard the testimony of the Business Manager, the President of the University (called at the request of the Dean), the verbal testimony of four members of the Board of Regents and the written statement of the fifth, (omitting only the chairman who at the time was out of the State, and the Hon. Loyd Noble, who was appointed to the Board of Regents within recent months); and the committee finds that the business manager at all times endeavored to carry out the orders of the Board of Regents, and that any criticisms of his actions in the final analysis must be considered criticisms of the orders of the Board of Regents. The committee further finds that the business manager, and through him the Board of Regents, have accomplished material and magnificent saving to the State of Oklahoma in the operation of the two hospitals without loss to the patients there admitted or curtailment of the work of the medical staff; this saving is best illustrated by the figures for the fiscal years 1931-32, when they handled patients totaling 149,468 patient days at a total cost of $604,514.45, or $3,799 per day per patient, and 1932-33, when they handled an average of 412 patients a day totaling 150,017 patient days at a total cost of $613,563.24 or $3.62 per patient per day; these two years being those immediately preceding the tenure of the present business manager; and for the fiscal year 1933-34, when an average of 432 patients a day were handled, or a total of 158,156 patient days at a total cost of $513,627.38 or $3.08 per patient per day.

4. The Report of the State Examiner and Inspector, for the period ending December 31, 1933, the first six months of the tenure of the present business manager, contained the following comment:

"Attention is called to the fact that a large part of the Medical School maintenance is paid for from the Main Hospital Funds. We believe this is contrary to the intent of the Legislature, since separate appropriations were made for each."

Improvement in this condition is shown at the next report of the State Examiner and Inspector, as follows:

"We found a better segregation of expenditures from appropriations for the Medical School and University Hospital."

The committee finds that the business manager has segregated these matters at this time as well as could be done; and that this is not now a matter for criticism, but that the effort to divide the expenditures into the several funds for the Medical School and Hospital was a contributing cause for some of the friction that developed.

5. Your committee further finds that the original faculty members of the Medical School for many years have maintained close control over the entire affairs of the Medical School and except in so far as the same has been changed by the Board of Regents on business matters, over the affairs of the hospitals; that to a more or less extent this has resulted in limiting new admissions to the staff to doctors who were either related to, or proteges of, present faculty and staff members; and that to a more or less extent the policies of the dean have been fixed by the same group.

6. It further appears to the committee that much of the unrest is attributable to the excitement occasioned at the time of the resignation of Dr. LeRoy Long, Sr., as Dean of the Medical School. The cause of which was due to the Governor, by executive order, sanctioning and demanding that a patient in the hospital be treated by a Chiropractor. At which time, and at which time only, did the Council on Medical Education write to the dean and advise him that a repetition of such political interference would jeopardize the "A" class rating of the Medical School.

7. Apparently the Hospital Board and original faculty members of the Medical School have been jealous of their prerogatives, and feared any effort or apparent move to encroach thereon.

8. Your committee further finds that the final responsibility of management, control and policy rests with the Board of Regents; that there has been a division of work under the Board; that the same does not constitute dual control but a separation of the business affairs from the clinical side of the hospitals.

9. Your committee is of the opinion that the University Hospital was established primarily for its clinical use by the Medical School, but that the Legislature in establishing the Crippled Children's Hospital did so primarily to effect the treatment of children and placed the same in the vicinity of the Medical School to obtain the services there afforded; that the use of the latter hospital by the Medical School for clinical purposes was a secondary matter.

10. Your committee finds that a better condition has existed since the appointment of a full time Medical Director at the hospital's.

11. Your committee makes the following recommendations:

(A) That the Medical School faculty and hospital staff members be selected and promoted on the basis of merit, ability, training and research endeavor, rather than on the basis of seniority.

(B) That members of the Medical School faculty and hospital staff be retired at the age of sixty-five years with the honorary position and title of Professor Emeritus.

(C) That members of the Medical School faculty and hospital staff will be at the age of sixty years, start to relieve themselves of their more arduous duties and given the advantage of their knowledge in an advisory capacity to the younger staff members.

(D) That all things pertaining to the medical and surgical care of those who are unfortunate enough to require admittance into the University or Crippled Children's Hospital be under the direct control of one man, and that man have the degree of M. D.

(E) That if the Dean of the Medical School is to assume the detail work of the Superintendency of the Hospital, that he be required to devote his entire time to the work of the Medical School and hospitals.

(F) That if the Board of Regents of the University of Oklahoma, do not favor the employment of a "full time dean." That they do employ a Medical Superintendent who shall work in conjunction with the Dean of the Medical School.

(G) That separate books and accounts be maintained at all times for the Medical School and the hospitals, and that the book-keeping unit for the Medical School be maintained at the Medical School.

(H) That a permanent fund be set aside for medical and surgical research.

(I) That a new building be erected on the campus of the medical school to be used for the out-patient and clinical departments.

(J) That a new and modern nurses dormitory be built away from the hospital grounds and that the building now used for the nurses be remodeled for an isolation and contagious ward.

(K) That the entire University and Crippled Children's Hospitals be used for the indigent in need of medical and surgical care.

(L) That the Board of Regents of the Oklahoma University take the necessary steps to ascertain the appropriation needed for the recommended changes and advise the next Legislature.

(M) That the orders and instructions of the Board of Regents be followed by all persons connected with the Medical School and University Hospital, and any person refusing to comply therewith be summarily discharged.

Your committee recognizes the splendid work and untiring efforts of the physicians who have in the past and are now giving of their energy and time to carry on the duties of the Medical School and hospitals. We further appreciate the constructive testimony and recommendations given the committee by the physicians, surgeons and entire medical personnel of the hospital who have been so kind to come before us.

We denounce those who tried to protect themselves or their friends and regret that they have lost sight of the sacredness of their responsibilities in administrating to suffering humanity.

The committee commends the Board of Regents on the recent selection of a full time Medical Director for the hospitals. May God in his wisdom direct their thoughts and actions in administrating the affairs of the entire University.

Respectfully submitted:

JOE M. WHITAKER,
BOWER BROADDUS,
H. W. WRIGHT,
LOUIS H. RITZHAUPT,

Members of Committee.
